marketplace factors which are critical for assisting or supporting consumers of financial services in Canada. These factors are: the transparency of transactions and disclosure; privacy of personal information; redress mechanisms; non-coercive sales practices; proficiency standards; and open markets. Particular attention is paid to financial institutions (banks, trust corporations, insurance companies, credit unions) and to financial intermediaries (primarily insurance brokers and agents). The introduction includes discussion of the rationale for focusing on

From sash windows and ceramic tiles to barracks and warehouses, industrialized building has thrived since the nineteenth century in Europe and America. Yet architects have neglected this area of practical construction in favor of historical, theoretical, and artistic analyses, resulting in the emergence of an influential building industry with architects on the far margins. Colin Davies explores in The

Prefabricated Home how the relationship between architecture and industrialized building has now become an urgent issue for architects. The Prefabricated Home outlines the methods and motives of prefabricated buildings and assesses their architectural implications. Davies traces the origins of the branded building phenomenon with examples ranging from the Dymaxion bathroom to IKEA's "Bo Klok" house. He also analyzes the use of industrialized buildings worldwide—including McDonald's drive-through restaurants and contrasts the aesthetic concerns of
