Abstract. There is a large body of research on the impact of domestic violence and abuse (DVA) on children, mostly reporting survey data and focusing largely on

Access Free Childrens

psychological
outcomes. Qualitative research on the views of children has the potential to enable a
child-centered
understanding of their experience of DVA,
so their needs can be better met by professionals.
