House cleaning has been an innate human activity forever but only since the early 19th century have mechanical devices replaced the physical labor (performed mostly by women). Mechanical carpet sweepers were replaced by manual suction cleaners, which in turn were replaced by electric vacuum cleaners in the early 20th century. Innovative inventors, who improved vacuum cleaners as electricity became commonly available, made these advances possible. Many early manufacturers failed, but some, such as Bissell, Hoover, Eureka and others, became household names as they competed for global dominance with improved features, performance and appearance. This book describes the fascinating people who made this possible, as well as the economic, cultural and technological contexts of their times. From obscure beginnings 200 years ago, vacuum cleaners have become an integral part of modern household culture.

We never have a choice in what colours are used to paint us, but we can choose the brush, how much of each dominates our portrait, who will be alongside us in it. A Girl Marked For Death. Trying to find some semblance of normality after her short stay in Battery Bay, Eyfea Pentáge has returned to doing what she does best: Killing. However, a cruel twist of fate has other plans for her... As it always does. A Seething Sickness. However, they're not the only ones seeking answers. Some familiar faces are in town and, by hook or by crook, they'll hang their Green, White and Gold from Castle Elster itself. Only they know how dark the shadow lording over this city is, darker still the shadow to the East. One way or another, a girl will become a woman; born from the grave of prices paid.

In this book, Dr. Li and his author team plan to emphasize why mouse models are useful in vivo systems for understanding disease mechanisms and developing therapeutic strategies in blood cancers. The authors do not intend to cover all types of blood cancers; instead, they will focus on some major ones such as leukemias and lymphomas. However, the authors will try to cover as much as they can the cancer types and point out that many blood cancers need to be studied in mouse disease models although they are still not available at present. A major focus in the book will be to show what we can or cannot learn from mouse disease models and to also show the critical contributions of mouse models in therapeutic drug development.
