two for the show is half of a rhyme used as a countdown to begin a task. The entire rhyme is: one for the money, two for the show, three to make ready and four to go. Children have used this little poem since the mid-1800s as a countdown to starting a race or competition.

~~One for the money,
two for the show~~ —
Grammarist

Possibly it's an allusion to the idea that the performer makes one (the first) effort because he's getting paid for it, and two (the second) because he just likes performing. Or perhaps it's one for the performer's

money, and two for
the share going to the venue. After that it's just counting in to the start of the main
